

6. Charles E. Farrell House, 416 NE Ione Street

(pictured on front cover)

Directions: From Anna Roffler Eddy House proceed one block east on NE Fifth to Ione Street. Turn right on Ione one block to Farrell House on northeast corner of NE Fourth Avenue and Ione Street.

In 1915 Roffler built the Farrell House which is considered Camas' most elegant home. Charles Farrell was a business and community leader who together with his wife, Rose Roffler Farrell opened a general store in 1903 that is today one of the longest operating businesses in Clark County.

Rose asked her brother to design a grand Classical Revival dwelling as seen on a postcard. The site was located on a full block in a heavily wooded area on the eastern outskirts of Camas. When completed the large square neo-classical two-and-a-half story dwelling had an imposing portico formed by paired two-story columns and had a cast concrete "Roffler Rock" retaining wall on its southern elevation. The porch columns are also of concrete, displaying Roffler's preference for the material which could withstand western Washington climate.

7. John Roffler II House, 309 NE First Avenue at Ione Street

Directions: Continue south on Ione Street for three blocks to NE First Avenue and Ione. John Roffler II sits on the northwest corner.